New lake park effort

Momentum is developing and there is hope of accelerating current state activity to establish Horseshoe Lake State Park, Henry D. Karandjeff said today.

Chairman of the 1974-75 Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Horseshoe Lake Park

Committee, the veteran banker has headed a series of state-appointed commissions created to spark progress toward acquisition and recreational development of the lake area.

Chairman Karandjeff said those familiar with the park proposal take exception to some phases of a review of Horseshoe Lake history presented by Harlie M. Love at an Oct. 25 public hearing. Text of Love's presentation for Granite City Steel appears on today's editorial page.

The hearing dealt with the industry's request to continue discharging water into the lake. The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's Region V administrator has just issued Granite City Steel a National Pollution Discharge Elimination System permit to continue routing water to Horseshoe Lake, it was announced today.

The permit is to become effective Dec. 12 unless the regional administrator receives and grants a request for an adjudicatory hearing.

Members of the lake park committee disagree with portions of the Oct. 25 testimony regarded as criticism of Horseshoe Lake's role in the years

Plan unit delays GC fire station

An attempt by the Granite City Fire Department to obtain a special use permit for construction of a new fire station at Johnson Road and Richmond Avenue was delayed by the Granite City Planning Commission Thursday afternoon as the commission tabled action pending additional legal information. Dave Morgan, Planning Commission chairman, told the commission that the city did not see why the fire department was requesting a special use permit since the area already is zoned R-1 residential and R-1 zoning already permits construction of public service buildings. Reference was made to a suit questioning if the city should be allowed to build the firehouse without a "special permit."

The suit also asks that the city be "enjoined from said proposed construction."

G. Edward Moorman, an East Alton attorney, has filed the suit on behalf of several residents near where the firehouse is proposed.

Fire Chief Don Parente, who attended the meeting, said he could not answer the legal questions.

Parente said, "My responsibility is for fire protection in the Nameeki area and my recommendation is that it (the present Nameeki Road station) be moved to the Johnson and Richmond location."

Several residents near that location argued that the fire station would depreciate property values 20 to 40 per cent and could create a noise nuisance during fires.

One man said, "There are other locations. I'd like to know why the city is determined to build there when the residents are so determined against it."

Parente explained Nameeki Road traffic has made it difficult for fire trucks to leave the Water main breaks, pavement and sewer collapse, car falls in

A broken water main on Terrace Lane near Clark Avenue during the weekend caused the street to collapse. A car drove into the hole, and the break also caused a city sanitary sewer to collapse.

Water was turned off at about 10:30 p.m. yesterday, leaving homes and businesses near Johnson Road and Clark Avenue without water pending repair of the broken main.

Authorities first were notified Saturday evening that water was bubbling to the surface of the ground, but the cause was not known.

The city street department erected barricades around the area and notified the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co. of a suspected water main break.

At 5:50 p.m. Sunday, the neighborhood auto of Henry Copman, 1323 Lindell Blvd., drove into a hole, causing the right front tire of the car to break. The rear of the car stuck in the hole and a wrecker was required to remove the auto. The driver was not injured.

Copman contended there were no barricades there when he drove into the hole, which was filled with water. Officials found the barricades in the hole.

Youth opinions at GC Optimist club

Parents need to become more involved with the schools in the area so that they know the good things that are happening, John Royce, president of the Granite City High North student body, and Mike Siebert, GCIS South president, told the Thursday noon meeting of the Granite City Optimist Club in the YMCA.

"Everything today is going up in price and that includes the cost of education," Royce said. "People have a tendency to say no right off the bat when a school bond issue is brought up without really knowing what the real needs are. I think if more people got involved in the schools they would better be able to make judgments on the needs."

"People should look on the schools as an investment and I believe the investment in Granite City is paying big dividends in the accomplishments of our students and graduates."

Royce praised the "open door" policy of North's principal Gilbert Walmesley. "If a student wants to see the principal at North he can do so without going through a lot of other people first. In most schools the only time you see the principal is when he sends for you and then that generally means a student is in big trouble. At North the principal will see a student almost anytime the student wants to see him."

"Another thing we have started at North is a student steering committee which meets every Thursday with Mr. Walmesley. Students who have questions on policy or want to know about something can tell a member of the steering committee and we can get the answers," Royce said.

"Right now our student council is trying to promote and raise funds to buy some picnic tables and benches for the

Magic trick not a treat

Granite City Patrolman John Apperson, who has become well known among Granite City children for his tricks of magic, accidentally found marijuana on a youth while performing magic at 1:05 p.m. Friday.

Apperson was putting gasoline into his squad car at the city pump at the main fire station when two youths approached. One asked to see a trick. He asked Apperson to show the other youth the disappearing coin trick.

Apperson took a coin from his pocket and made it magically disappear. When the second youth asked, "Where did it go?" Apperson reached into the youth's coat pocket and said, "Here it is, right in your pocket."

When Apperson withdrew his hand from the youth's pocket, out came the coin and a plastic bag full of marijuana.

The policeman placed both youths in the squad car and took them to the Granite City Police Department. When they arrived he noticed a second bag of marijuana in the rear seat of the squad car which had not been there when the car had been inspected a short time earlier.

Arrested were John Brooks, 18, of 2021 Washington Ave., and a 16-year-old Grand Avenue boy who was released to the custody of his parents pending a hearing.

Arrest three; find 1,700 LSD doses

Three young men were arrested at 9:30 p.m. Friday when Madison police stopped a car at 13th Street and Madison Avenue and allegedly found about 1,700 doses of LSD and about 300 "white crosses" (amphetamine pills).

LSD, also known as "acid," is a hallucinatory compound which requires only a small amount per dose. It is sold either in a solid or a liquid form, authorities say.

The LSD police confiscated was in solid form, with about 100 "doses" bundled together in plastic to make a ball about two inches in diameter. Seventeen of the bundles were found in the car, police allege. LSD sells on the street for about $2 per dose and the white crosses are worth about $450, making the sale value of the drugs seized about $3,850, authorities related.

Officers were told three youths in a car behind a drive-in restaurant were trying to sell drugs.

When a squad car arrived, the auto left and was stopped on Madison Avenue and searched. The drugs were found in a paper bag on the front seat, officers alleged.

Charged with two counts each of unlawful possession of a controlled substance were William Herbert, 22, and Leroy Berry, 23, both of East St. Louis.

Bob Love, 20, of 1634 Olive St., allegedly found in the rear seat of the car, was charged with one count of unlawful possession of a controlled substance, the amphetamines.

Herbert also is being held for the state of California, where he allegedly is a fugitive from justice on a parole violation.

Penty of 'future shock' locally during Depression of 1930s

Senior citizens attending a class in humanities at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville last week had a chance to share their own experiences during the Great Depression.

"They were able to narrow it down to their own involvement in what was happening," Jules Zanger, professor in the English language and literature department, said.

Speaking of the economic depression in historical terms

Zanger said, "Middle Americans' faith was shaken. Their feeling was one of confusion, profound despair, and a sharing of their own experiences."

"Factories were still standing, the fields still fertile, yet the value had gone out of them. To the majority of Americans in the Midwest, this was a terrible shock."

In looking back on her own experiences during the lean years, Mrs. Vernice Wortman of Granite City said, "I gave up the opportunity to do our own thinking. We worked a little harder."

"We had to make our own entertainment," Mrs. Mary Ferguson of Madison said. "Mother cooked fish on weekends, and we invited our friends. You could buy a big fish at the market for a dollar."

"We raised chickens and hogs out there in our backyard. They don't allow you to do things like that any more," Mrs. Ferguson added.

According to Zanger most of the senior citizens felt the "New Deal" was an improvement.

The Federal Housing Administration plan made men like Roosevelt whether anything else did or not," Mrs. Peter Argelan from Granite City, said.

Peter and Irene Argelan, who were newlyweds during the depression, said they kept their home. Under the FHA plan, all the people who have done business with us over these many years and have become our friends," Helman said.

"We are going to continue to live in Granite City and we have raised our two sons, Howard and Bernard. We think this is a good city to live in."

When asked about their future plans Helman said they are going to "rest and relax."

"My wife and I want to thank

A goal of 400 has been set for the contest promoted by Norman Hessler, Sunday school superintendent, and his assistant, Bob Harris, between the "Pilgrims" and "Indians."

Winners will be announced during the Sunday services. The Sanctuary Choir will open the service and the Children's Choir will present a musical entitled "Naaman and the Leper" to be followed by a Thanksgiving meal served in the church fellowship hall.

This will be the first performance of the Children's Choir since the church initiated a graded choir program. Mr. and Mrs. William Elsworth have been employed as youth and music directors.

Challenge to boost production of food for big, hungry world

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

Food, and more of it, is currently in the spotlight. The emphasis is apparent in three related developments:

1. The World Food Conference held in Rome stressed increased grain production, creation of national reserves and food aid to poor countries.
2. The Agriculture Department has announced that Illinois remained the largest supplier of agricultural products for export in 1975.
3. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton K. Youtter said in Minneapolis that world food demand is as high as it has ever been and that the "immediate priority is to refill the empty bins and restock the shelves."

Ambassador Edwin P. Martin, U.S. coordinator at the World Food Conference, told Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., in a television interview that the meeting was the need to increase production of basic foods, particularly grains, and to build up international supplies to take the strain off consumers in richer countries while reducing risks of famine and starvation in poor countries.

Illinois, to retain its lead in fiscal 1974 as the largest farm exporter, jumped its share to nearly $2 billion, almost 50 percent above fiscal 1973.

The Agriculture Department, in reporting this, said three fifths of the total of $21.3 billion worth of U.S. farm exports in fiscal 1974 came from 10 states, with Illinois the leader.

The total farm export for fiscal 1974 was considerably above the $12.9 billion earned in fiscal 1973 or the $9.1 billion in fiscal 1972.

Fiscal 1974 export sales represented the output of 96 million acres of U.S. cropland, 11 million acres more than the previous year.

This was nearly one out of every three acres harvested. Youtter, in an address to the 41st annual crop production conference, told the Crop Quality Council that American farmers are under challenge in 1975 "to produce more than ever before, despite rising production costs, short supplies of important inputs and the uncertainties of weather, insects and disease."

"If ever we have needed the expertise and energy of our farmers, 1975 is the year," he said.

"The entire nation, and indeed the entire world, are looking forward to the 1975 production from U.S. farms. World food demand is as high as it has ever been."

"World food stocks have been drawn down severely by production setbacks in 1972 and 1974, and by the strong consumer demand of recent years. We will be looking at the bottom of a good many storage bins by the time the 1975 U.S. crops are harvested."

Youtter predicted "minimal carryovers" of major farm commodities.

He said 1974 may have been the "turning point" for food production. Look back on it, "We may find that the concern about this year's food shortages may have triggered some very beneficial reactions."

The shortages made many governments aware of agricultural shortcomings, resulted in higher prices and higher incomes for farmers around the world, and directed more investment in fertilizer plants and agricultural research stations of developing countries, Youtter theorized.

"Consumers may have come to realize that incentive prices are their best guarantee of food security," he went on to say.

"If that has happened, then this year's tight food supplies may turn out to be exactly the stimulus we have needed to gear up the world's agriculture for the challenge of tomorrow."

American Steel 25-year club to enroll 7 members

The 25-Year Club of American Steel Foundries will enroll seven new members at its 31st annual meeting and banquet, in the cafeteria of the Granite City High School-South, Wednesday, Dec. 4.

The new members will receive engraved watches from M. B. Miloraki, works manager of the local plant. With the new enrollment, the 25-Year Club will be 448, including 240 honorary members. Thirteen club members died within the past year.

The club was organized in 1944 for the purpose of promoting good fellowship among employees with long service at the local plant. The 25-year club is headed by G. W. Handlon, president.

A film will be shown after dinner showing the many hobbies and interests of several retired employees.

New members from Granite City include: William A. Wachter, 1560 Garfield Ave., and Frank Huerta, 1728 Olive St.

Others enrolled include Leslie Coulson, Collinsville; Lody Milkovich, Edwardsville; Joseph Chapman, Brooklyn; and Lawrence Bailey and Peyton Smith, St. Louis.

State police offer safe driving course

Thus far this year, Illinois has a total of 1,632 traffic fatalities compared to 2,038 fatalities for the same period in 1973.

In District 11 at Maryville, which includes Madison, St. Clair, Montgomery, Macoupin, Clinton, Bond, Green, Jersey and Monroe counties, there has been 162 traffic fatalities compared to 186 in the same period in 1973, a reduction of 34.

Some traffic safety experts feel that this reduction in fatal accidents is due to the reduced speed, while others feel it is due to less miles driven due to the fuel crisis, authorities said.

Illinois State Police said they believe motorists may help cut traffic fatalities more by attending the National Safety Council's "Defensive Driving Course." It is designed for drivers of all ages to improve their knowledge and skills to teach them how to prevent all accidents, by taking evasive maneuvers before being trapped in an accident-producing situation.

The Defensive Driving Course is an eight-hour classroom course. It can be presented in eight one-hour sessions, or any combination necessary to meet various schedules. The course is taught by members of the Illinois State Police, Safety Education Section.

The cost is only $50, which pays for the student workbook. Upon completion of the course drivers will receive a Certificate of Appreciation from the National Safety Council and will join 6 million drivers who have completed this course.

Individuals or organizations interested in taking the course may contact the Illinois State Police Safety Education Section, District 11, Rt. 159, Maryville, or call (618) 345-1212.

Integrity of income tax system being bolstered

William E. Williams, deputy commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, told a group of tax professionals at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale last week that the integrity of the IRS has been upheld.

In regard to charges that the IRS was misused by the Nixon administration, Williams said, "The investigative record of Congress shows that the IRS was not misused by the administration in the past years and months. We did not mistreat those on the enemy list or befriend those on the friends list."

Williams, a Galatia native who graduated from SIU in 1948, spoke before the 17th annual Southern Illinois Tax Conference. His career with IRS began 26 years ago when he started as deputy collector in Belleville.

He served in progressively more responsible positions in East St. Louis, Mount Vernon, Milwaukee (Wis.), Albany (N.Y.) and Boston.

In his present post as deputy commissioner, which he assumed in May, he is second only to the Presidential-appointed commissioner.

The supposedly tremendous wave of non-compliance, predicted by many people because of Watergate-related scandals did not occur, according to Williams.

Returns were filed earlier, and fewer mistakes were made than ever before," he said.

Williams stressed the importance of confidence in the tax system. "The tax system is based on the concept of voluntary compliance and confidence," he said. "If confidence is lost, the system of government might fail."

The career service orientation of the 8,000 employees who attend to administration of the vast federal tax laws insures the non-political nature of the IRS, he said.

The confidentiality of tax returns is of great concern to the IRS, he stressed. "The commissioner has already taken initial steps to preserve the integrity of the tax system. Any request for tax return information by individuals or government agencies must be in writing and can only be approved by Commissioner Alexander."

Williams cited changes in the tax system which have increased its efficiency and fairness.

Among the improvements are: implementation of a national toll-free telephone system for citizens who need information; an increase in the number of offices open during the filing period to meet the needs of average citizens; a taxpayer service division which was organized July 1.

Also, use of scientific classification methods for more uniform selection of returns for auditing, and the settling of up to 2,500 disputed returns by the district conferee, with less inconvenience to both taxpayers and the government.

The 1974 tax forms will be sent out between Dec. 26 and Jan. 4, and since there are few changes from last year's form as a guide, Williams said.

Minor changes he mentioned were re-introduction of Schedule B, which must be filed if income from interest or dividends exceeds $400, and elimination of specified listings for contributions and dates of medical expenditures.

"Our tax system is possibly the most efficient in the world," he asserted.

Williams said he was "tremendously pleased" to see Susie Ogden, his former SIU accounting professor, at the conference. He has cited her as being a major influence on his professional development.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Another friend of Williams attending the conference was Ira S. Loeb, head of the district office in Springfield since Sept. 1.

The conference was co-sponsored by the SIUC department of accountancy and the Southern Chapter of the Illinois Society of CAPs, in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education.

Daley organization is still in robust health

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

It is not generally known but Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett has quietly ruled out any possibility that he might run for mayor of Chicago.

This would be the case even if Mayor Richard J. Daley should surprise prevailing opinion in Illinois political circles and decide against seeking a sixth successive term.

Howlett's firm dismissal of any mayoralty opportunity is based on the outcome of the November election in Chicago. The Daley machine proved once again that it is not only far from dead, but retains a vigor and effectiveness that ranks with some of its best performances in the past. Scandals involving high-ranking organization personalities appear not to have weakened it in the slightest. For example, former legislative leader and longtime Daley protégé George Dunne won re-election to the Cook County Board by more than 300,000 votes.

Democratic Cook County Clerk Stanley Kasper, despite criticisms of his handling of the post of chairman of the County Board of Election Commissioners, easily won re-election over Republican hopeful Lola Flamm, who had been considered a strong challenger.

What is now apparent to such a knowledgeable politician as Howlett is that—should Daley decide to step aside—he would have no difficulty in electing any chosen successor.

There appears to no longer be a need for any strong popular "independent" like Howlett, who conceivably can be elected to about any office in the state. With the Chicago Democratic machine still hale and hearty, Daley could now choose among several of his favored associates including, perhaps, Dunne or current Democratic state chairman and former Illinois House Speaker John P. Toub.

At this point, however, the prevailing political view is that Daley will run again and be re-elected easily in 1975.

The only serious Republican challenger on the Chicago scene, U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson, removed himself from mayoralty consideration after polls showed him running substantially behind Daley.

The latest word out of Chicago is that Thompson is currently giving consideration to running for governor in 1976. Because of vast publicity through his role as a successful prosecutor of leading political figures, Thompson could be expected to run strongly in heavily Republican areas of suburban Cook County. He would need a big build-up Downstate.

Should Thompson begin appearing frequently on Dewnstate speaking circuit in the months ahead, this would be a tipoff that he is really serious about the governorship.

Howlett meanwhile appears content to stay in his "safe" office of secretary of state and to devote free time to advancing the political career of young Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan.

Beneath the Statehouse Dome, persistent reports of "a deal" between Daley and Gov. Dan Walker are taken with considerable skepticism.

Any Walker-Daley truce, it is reasoned, will be short-lived and the inevitable fallout will be even more bitter than in the past.

A Walker-Hartigan primary battle for the governor nomination in 1976 still rates as a good winterbook bet.

Statements sought on river channel dredging

Comments are still being accepted on St. Louis Army Engineer District proposals for dredging and spoil operations in connection with maintenance of a nine-foot navigation channel in the Mississippi River between Cairo, Ill., and the mouth of the Missouri River here.

A public hearing will be held at 1 p.m. in the Missouri Room, Gateway Hotel, 9th and Washington streets, St. Louis, on Thursday, Dec. 12.

All interested parties are invited to attend to express their views concerning the proposed dredging and disposal sites.

Regulations recently adopted by the secretary of the Army provide that dredging to be performed by the Corps will be subject to the public review procedures that are followed in processing applications for Department of the Army permits.

Based on historical records, approximately 30 locations must be dredged annually to prevent a partial or total cessation of barge traffic on the Upper Mississippi River.

Project maps indicating all prospective dredging and disposal sites were circulated by public notice from the St. Louis District on Sept. 16. Designation of the proposed disposal sites for dredged material is to be made through the application of guidelines promulgated by the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, in conjunction with the secretary of the Army.

If these guidelines alone prohibit the designation of proposed disposal sites, any potential impairment to the maintenance of navigation—including any economic impact on navigation and anchorage which would result from the failure to use these disposal sites—will also be considered.

Col. Thorwald R. Peterson, district engineer, has urged all interested individuals, groups and agencies to attend or be represented at the hearing. While oral statements are welcome, written statements, supported by factual information wherever possible, insure greater accuracy. These may be brought to the hearing or may be submitted in writing now to the St. Louis District office—District Engineer, U.S. Army Engineer District-St. Louis, 210 North 12th St. St. Louis, Mo. 63101.

SIUE veterans urge Ford to sign assistance act

Vietnam era veterans on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have completed a "mailgram" drive to President Gerald Ford, urging him to sign the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, which will reach the president's desk today.

Gary Storey, 2312 Orville Ave., president of the Association of Collegiate Veterans, explained the bill would increase monthly veterans educational benefits from the present $220 to $260 per month for single veterans. Married benefits should rise about 23 percent, if the bill is approved.

Other provisions of the bill would provide for low interest loans of up to $600 per year and would extend the period undergraduates in college could qualify for benefits by nine months.

Storey said his group solicited students on the campus and mailed a "mailgram" to Ford urging the bill be signed. Forty persons donated $1.25 each to have form mailgrams sent in their names to the White House.

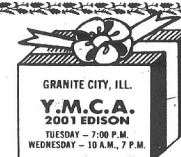

He added his group is continuing to urge individuals to send mailgrams on their own and will have a veterans' assistance table during Tuesday's college registration at which vets will be urged to participate in the campaign.

The group's president said Ford will have 10 days to sign the bill from the time it arrives on his desk Monday. "If he vetoes it—which is not expected to happen—we will launch a full drive to get our Congressmen and Senators to override the veto," he explained.

The reason for the bill is to aid students who are veterans in coping with inflation. "With the cost of living now, what we received is not enough to cover educational expenses, not counting living expenses. That is not my opinion. That was the finding of a survey conducted by the Department of Veterans Administration," he explained.

Basketball Steelers to have height, experience

"We'll basically be the same type team we were last year," reports Steeler basketball Coach William Ohlendorf. Granite City High School North players continue to battle among themselves for starting spots.

"We don't have a lot of overall team speed," said the young but veteran mentor, "but we will be a good pressing team and we have players with abilities to score and run pattern defense."

North has eight seniors and seven juniors vying for key positions before the school's 1974 season opens on Nov. 29 at Springfield Griffin. Coach Ohlendorf speculates, "Maybe we'll be able to start a whole junior ball club."

"They have been showing a lot of promise in practice and we look for a lot of good things from these players."

Although the juniors—Tim Luehmann at 5-5, Dale Page at 5-10, Rick Spurlock at 6-10, Jim Baker at 6-0, Larry Schleicher at 6-0, Tom Schocker at 6-4 and Jim Woodward at 5-9—may have great potential, not to be overlooked are the players who helped the Steelers to a first-year 14-11 record which included victories over some of the top-ranked schools in this area.

The wins included: Assumption 69-54, Mater Dei 62-61, Sparta 72-65, Wood River 79-67, Roxana 62-54 and O'Fallon 60-51 and 58-52.

Returning as seniors from last year's squad are Greg Gauen, 6-2½, who garnered 217 points through the net; Mike Walde, 6-4½, who tallied 117 points; Steve Reinagel, 6-0½; Larry Jones, 6-6, with 90 points; Gene Logas, 6-6, with 114 points; Daryl Page, 6-0, with 226 points; plus Wade Huff at 6-2 and Jeff Reiter at 5-9.

"It's hard to judge a high school boy after a year because a lot of things can happen to him, but most just get better," Ohlendorf said that other than the players themselves, the team's main asset is that—with a season of experience behind it—his squad does not have to take as much time learning fundamentals as it did last year as a first-year school. With only one addition to last season's schedule—Springfield Southeast—the Steelers feel they have a better potential because "we know our opponents after having played them."

"We know their weaknesses and strengths, whereas last year we met them cold."

The cage mentor feels North played some good teams in its first season of competition and "hopefully, our losses will pay off this year in the much-needed experience we gained from them."

Ohlendorf predicts that all of the North's foes which are in the Southwestern Conference will be tough this year, "including GCHS South, which promises to be a much improved team."

"Competition for our starting spots remains very keen."

BOWLING LEAGUES NOW FORMING AT TRIMOR

I take this opportunity to thank my friends and supporters who have so unselfishly backed me throughout my tenure as State Representative.

It has been a privilege to have served the citizens of the 56th District for four years. My experience in the State Legislature has been a rewarding one, both from the standpoint of involvement and education. I have tried to serve to the best of my ability.

It would be easy, as a result of the recent election, for me to rationalize the outcome but I choose to express my thoughts in a more pragmatic manner. Support can, and usually does, come from many groups, from individuals and vested interests. In some instances, help comes from the opposite political party. In essence, the voters, for whatever reason, elect the candidate. It is the people who elect, thus they must accept the responsibility of government. Many good candidates fail because of apathy — lack of involvement or disinterest on the part of the electorate, therefore, it can be assumed that a person can be elected by voters who do not go to the polls to exercise their constitutional franchise.

It behooves us all to get involved, be alert, investigate, and, above all, vote.

My family and I appreciate the help and loyalty throughout the years. Thank you forever.

Sincerely,
 ROBERT J. WALTERS

prior to the creation in 1985 of a large wastewater treatment facility at the lake.

They cite recreational use of the lake dating back to the turn of the century, when thousands took ferries to the local community and rode open "yellow hammer" trolley cars to the shore.

Major lake resorts such as Moellenbrock's and Bricker and Young's were the scene of outings, vacations, picnics, fishing, boating, hikes, dances and ferris wheel rides.

Karandjeff has been in frequent contact with Anthony Dean, director of the Illinois Conservation Department, to aid in expediting the park proposal.

The gubernatorial commission has been active since 1956, and initial committee efforts to create the lake park go back to 1938 in documents in the commission chairman's file. Land acquisition has been in progress for several years but not enough has been purchased to enable the park to be developed and formally opened.

Data compiled by Karandjeff and State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene shows 104 parcels and 812.17 acres acquired through the 1974 fiscal year. The state's schedule calls for the addition of 13 parcels and 792.54 acres in 1974-75; 40 parcels and 1,060.62 acres in 1975-76; and a remaining 10 parcels and 384.83 acres in 1976-77. This would result in a park of 3,000 acres, including the water area and adjacent land.

Water Main

It is not known if the barrier fell in when the street collapsed or if someone pushed it in.

The street department Saturday night found sand and dirt in the sewers and suspected a sewer break.

Workers thought for a time that the sand and dirt were from the leaking water entering a manhole. But after the car fell into the hole, they began pumping water from the area to determine the condition of the sewer.

When the water was removed, the broken water main was found with water gushing out. The water company then was requested to turn off water to the main, and collapsed.

Pumping operations at the hole continued until the city's eight-inch-sewer line was found broken. Officials speculate the water washed the dirt from under the sewer line, causing it to collapse.

The break was the 35th sanitary sewer break in Granite City since early 1973, and was one of the few not caused by a high groundwater table.

MR. AND MRS. GARY E. DENNY, whose wedding took place at Hope Lutheran Church. She is the former Miss Carol Elaine Cotter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gene Cotter, 603 English Place.

(Hollywood Andrews Studio)

Hope Lutheran scene of Denny-Cotter nuptials

Miss Carol Elaine Cotter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gene Cotter, 603 English Place, and Gary Eugene Denny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Denny, 819 Thorngate Drive, exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony on Nov. 9 at Hope Lutheran Church.

Flowers arranged with burning tapers adorned the altar for the 6 o'clock evening service performed by the Rev. David Fielding. Organist Vincent Adams played several nuptial selections, including "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," "Wedding March" and "Trumpet Voluntary." He also accompanied Mrs. Margaret MacZura who sang "Ave Maria," "The Sabbath Prayer," "Sunrise Sunset" and "One Hand, One Heart."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the former Miss Cotter selected a floor length gown of candlelight bridal satin. The Empire bodice featured a mandarin collar and long bishop sleeves with deep cuffs enhanced with pearl and crystal beaded motifs. The motifs were repeated on the yoke.

An ivory satin sash encircled the high rise waist and formed a bow and streamers in the back. The full, gathered skirt swept into a cathedral train.

A double cathedral veil edged in wide Alencon lace and appliqued with lace motifs was secured by a camelot hat. She carried a cascade of Tropicana roses and baby breath centered with cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Gayle Dale served as matron of honor with Misses Jody Blackard and Susan Parison as bridesmaids. Proceeding the wedding party were special attendants, Miss Pam Denny and Misses Alice, Abby and Carrie Cotter, sisters of the groom and bride respectively.

They wore identical formal length gowns of dark brown velvet. The square necklines were trimmed with a panel of ivory lace over satin gathered into a decorative design.

Brown velvet ribbon defined the crescent waistlines and tied in a bow at the back of the gathered skirts.

Each held an arrangement of orange mums, Tropicana roses and baby breath festooned with long brown streamers.

Barry Trotts attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Bruce Trotts and Kirk Darner. Steven Dale and Edward Mullins seated the guests.

The newly married Mr. and Mrs. Denny received guests at a reception at Holy Trinity Hall, Madison, immediately following the service.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cotter selected a long mint green dress gown designed in Empire style and complemented with silver accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Denny, wore a powder blue dress of triviera polyester. Covered buttons and a self fabric belt enhanced the long gown, worn with silver accessories.

Members of the bridal party and their families were entertained at a rehearsal dinner at Charlie's Restaurant on the evening preceding the wedding.

Both young people are graduates of Granite City High School. The bride is employed at Western Union Centralized Telephone Bureau in Bridgeton, Mo.

The groom is completing his senior year of study at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where he is majoring in business science.

They are residing in Granite City.

Future Secretaries install

More than 100 were present in the Fellowship Hall of Central Christian Church last week to witness the initiation of 37 high school secretarial students into the Granite City High School Chapter of the Future Secretaries Association.

Each FSA officer and initiate received a pink sweetheart rose corsage as they arrived for the fourth initiation-installation ceremony of the local FSA Chapter, which has registered over 200 members during that time. Current membership of the chapter is 38.

Mrs. Charlene Vunovic, chairman of the FSA committee, Tri-Cities Chapter of The National Secretaries Association, introduced the speakers and Mrs. Salley Grayce, president of the sponsoring chapter, welcomed the guests.

Illinois Division treasurer, Miss Twila Edmonds, a member of the local NSA chapter, spoke on behalf of the Division officers. She encouraged the FSA members to join the National Secretaries Association as soon as they qualified for membership by having a secretarial job for one year.

Mrs. June Mosele, a past member of the International Institute for Certifying Secretaries and a present member of the International Committee on World and Public Affairs, gave the audience a brief history of the Tri-Cities Chapter.

The keynote speaker was Venice Mayor William Eberstadt, who was recently elected "Boss of the Year" of the Tri-Cities Chapter. He stressed the importance of hard work and of developing a "real sense of responsibility" on the job. He cautioned against "stepping on someone's toes" on the way up the ladder of success, noting the same people could contribute to the speed of one's decline from the top.

Mrs. Betty DuMont, who shares the title of "Business Teacher of the Year" with Milton Cox of GCHS-South, told of the high regard in which the local Future Secretaries Association chapter is held by business teachers.

The candlelight initiation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Mosele and Miss Edmonds. Each initiate received a small green candle, attached with a pink rose, which was lighted as her name was called by faculty advisors Mrs. Judi Sparks and Mrs. Lucille DeLay. Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Vunovic and Mrs. Grayce.

The meeting was closed with remarks by FSA President Cheryl Patton. Parents and friends joined the FSA and NSA members for refreshments and a social hour.

South Band Parents meet Wafler

Kiril Kirchoff, president of the Granite City High School South Band Parents, introduced the new assistant band director, Terry Wafler, during a meeting last week in the school music room.

Wafler, recently discharged from the U.S. Marine Corps, attended the local high school, was a first chair clarinet student and received the John Phillip Sousa band award.

The president announced the South band will play at the Nov. 26 basketball game and all requirements are to be completed by band students no later than Nov. 27 to participate in concert activities.

Also announced was the annual Christmas Concert set for Dec. 12 when the girls will wear formal gowns and the boys will wear their uniforms.

Parents attending the meeting agreed to purchase new uniforms for both Joseph Owens and Wafler. Sustaining memberships and concert tickets are now being sold by the band members. Kirchoff reported four television sets will be awarded to those who sell the largest number of tickets with a $100 minimum. Deadline for the sales is Dec. 2.

Owens told the group he will show the video tape of the band's homecoming show at the Dec. 10 meeting. Mrs. Mary Frantz and Mrs. Ruth Tedesco will serve as hostess for the meeting.

After the business session refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Juhász and Mrs. Rosemary Vizer.

Community colleges lead enrollment rise

The number of students attending Illinois public and private colleges and universities this fall is up nearly 51,000, thanks to the community colleges sector.

A report released by the Illinois Board of Higher Education shows public community colleges accounted for 83 per cent of the increases.

Approximately 90 per cent of the additional 50,867 students registered this fall are accounted for by increased part-time enrollment. Most of these part-time students fall within the public community college sector.

A total of 593,631 degree-credit students were attending some 137 public and private colleges and universities within the state. The fall of 1973 saw 542,764 students, and 479,231 were tallied in 1970.

In fact, enrollment increases can be traced back 25 consecutive years, according to the IBHE report.

Nationwide, degree credit enrollment has increased an estimated 97 per cent since 1970, while in Illinois degree credit enrollment has risen 23 per cent over the same period.

Community college enrollment represents part of the enrollment growth, according to the IBHE. Since 1970, the community college head-count degree credit enrollment has increased 70 per cent.

The largest increase was set between 1973 and 1974, when community college enrollment increased 19 per cent.

Although there are enrollment gains in nearly all of the universities, public and private, there are shifts in types of attendance. For example, more part-time students are attending higher education institutions than in the past.

These students make up 47 per cent of the enrollment this year, as compared to 43 per cent for the fall of 1973.

Community college's part-time enrollment increased from 66 per cent of their total enrollment in 1973 to 70 per cent of their enrollment this year.

In the private university sector, part-time student enrollment increased from 28 per cent in 1973 to 31 per cent in 1974. Part-time enrollment did not increase, however, in the public universities.

He was charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. Officers alleged he had been involved in an earlier hit and run accident.

GCHS students honored as walkathon champions

Granite City High School students were honored at the National Foundation, March of Dimes, Madison County Chapter annual meeting last week.

A plaque inscribed "Walkathon Champions—1974" was presented to John Royce, president and Pam Reinhardt, vice-president of North High School, and Harry Cook, student council advisor and the Walkathon chairman for Granite City 1973-74, by Gerald Pakovich, president of the chapter.

Cook thanked the group on behalf of the students of North and South High Schools and Miss Sharon Smegner, student council advisor of South.

He expressed his appreciation to the 1973-74 Student Council presidents, Brent Weiss of North and Kenne Kibort of South.

Mayor Lewis J. Krause of Collinsville gave the opening address and remarks were made regarding the 1975 campaign by Pakovich, president, and Mrs. Calvin Peck, executive secretary of the chapter.

William Owens, National Foundation field representative, showed films of previous walkathons.

Attending the dinner meeting from Granite City were Mrs. Ruth McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Chaboude and children, Walter and Geoffrey, Miss Barbara Watz, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Luebben, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cook, Miss Pam Reinhardt, Mr. John Royce and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Chaboude.

Mental health clinic offers many services

The multiple services of the Quad-City Center of the Madison County Mental Health Clinic was explained Thursday morning to the Breakfast Business Club by William Daumueler, executive director.

The three major programs presently in operation are a day hospital, crisis intervention services, and community service team, Daumueler said.

Daumueler said that the center hopes to start a new program aimed at helping teenagers, but suitable quarters have not been found. He said that a house rather than an office-type building would suit the program better and the young people would not be so easily "turned off" entering and leaving a home.

The center would operate similar to the current day hospital program. The day hospital program is a community treatment program to provide psychiatric and psychological rehabilitation for persons with emotional problems. It was explained. The program is an extension of the outpatient services of the Quad-City Mental Health Center and is located at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The patient is involved in groups of socialization, role playing, discussions, recreation, crafts, movies, lectures, and general relaxation. Medication, and family and marital sessions are provided when the need is indicated, Daumueler said.

The patient normally is involved in the day hospital program on an average of four months. It was noted that this has been highly successful and has eliminated many persons from being institutionalized in a state hospital such as at Alton. Family ties and friends can be maintained in the day program and utilized to help the patient, he said.

Fees are based on a sliding scale and range from 25 cents per day to $26 per day depending on the persons ability to pay.

The Quad-Cities Community Services team provides assistance to clients whose needs best can be met by referral to a specific treatment program. This includes the alcoholism and drug abuse as well as public psychiatric hospitals and private psychiatric units.

The teams assist individuals discharged from state or private hospitals. They get a relationship established with the patient before the discharge and this is carried over into the community adjustment. According to Daumueler the community service team program has cut down the number of persons going back to a state hospital by about 500 per cent.

The crisis intervention program has been designed for people who need immediate help and the staff working with this program is on call 24 hours a day, every day of the year.

Persons with problems may call 1-387-3664 any time and receive immediate help. According to the director, each crisis situation is handled individually and after the problem is evaluated a decision is reached regarding an appropriate course of action.

The local office of the Madison County Mental Health Clinic is located at 2024 State St., phone 877-4420.

Next week's program will present Dale E. Rea, assistant outside area. We feel these would be a good addition and allow students a place to relax and visit when not in class or studying," Royce concluded. Siebert said that his observations and study indicate many parents and other adults have some "very wrong opinions" of today's teenagers. "I think that about 50 per cent of the adults think that we are all dope fiends. In reality, there are only one or two per cent on hard drugs. A lot of high school students have tried marijuana once or twice, but they don't pick it up as a habit."

"Many parents think that students just don't care about school, but far more of us do. I think a student reaches a certain maturity level and then he realizes how important education is in today's world," Siebert said.

Siebert laid the blame on the misconception of adults about today's students to the news media. "Parents think the kids are all bad because all they hear about from the news media is basically bad news for which only a small portion of young people are responsible, he said.

"There aren't that many more students smoking now than before. It is just that today students are more about it. In checking on the number of girls quitting school because of pregnancies, it has increased only from two to four a year, on the average, over the last 20 years," Siebert said.

More school pride has developed with the forming of the two high schools and a healthy rivalry is good as long as both students and parents don't get carried away in their enthusiasm and lose sight of the real purpose of the schools, the two speakers commented. Optimist President Frank McGinness appointed Dave Fox as chairman for the 1975 talent auction held jointly with the GC Rotarians.

It was announced that Col. Thorwald Peterson, district engineer, will present the program on Jan. 16 and explain the importance of the locks and the river to this area.

The soybean plant now is in full compliance. The rules cover water, noise, air and other things," he said, emphasizing the annexation and zoning change could not adversely affect nearby residents. The Plan Commission gave its unanimous endorsement to the rezoning and annexation of the property. The recommendation to approve the request will be considered by the Granite City Council at tonight's meeting. Randall also said that ADM still is considering whether or not to sell the former Miles Laboratories plant here. He said questions to remove and sell most of the equipment in the plant have been nearly completed.

He added the ADM caramel production section, which operates in a small section of the plant, will continue to operate. "We will stay in the caramel business, but we are not sure what to do with the rest of the plant," Randall explained.

present station there quickly and he feels Johnson Road would provide easier access while still being within fast reach of all portions of the Nameki area.

He said there is no substantiation to show property values would decline and the residents argued there is no proof to show that the values will not decline. "We are asking for concrete evidence it will not devalue our property," one man said.

Morgan said he had heard in other cities new firehouses had reduced vandalism near them and "blended with the neighborhoods and were well kept."

On resident responded, "A firehouse may be an asset to some areas. In our area, we feel it would decrease the value there."

Parents tried to answer the question about noise during fires, saying the trucks leave the station only about 200 times per year, or less than once per day.

Granite City Attorney George Filcoff was not present to elaborate on the status of the residents' suit or why the special use permit was being sought.

A special meeting of the Plan Commission is scheduled for Thursday at 1:15 p.m. to consider the petition for a special use permit for construction of the fire station.

Morgan told the audience that any action taken by the Plan Commission can be overruled by the City Council. One woman asked the board members why they served free on the board when they served no concrete purpose except to make recommendations which can be overruled.

Morgan commented, "We feel like this on many occasions. Barry Loman, a member of the commission, added, "We're trying to do our civic duties, just like you would do if you were asked to serve on this commission."

The board was further hampered at the meeting by a ruling from its attorney that the only official action it could take would have to be by a unanimous vote, since only seven of the 12 commission members were present.

The attorney said Illinois Revised Statutes require a vote by a majority of the whole board, not just by a majority of those present. Seven votes were required for any action, he said.

That ruling allowed Ed Schmitt to vote against one petition for approval of the site, but positive votes from the other six members present.

The petition was brought in by Joe Koesterer, 2740 to 2750 Madison Ave., who requested a C-1 commercial classification instead of the present R-3 residential for his property. He desires to construct an office building there.

Koesterer formerly was granted a special use permit for the property and began to construct the new building until he was told the special use permit allowed him to use only the existing building on the property for offices, not to construct a new building.

He also was told he could not construct the building five feet from the rear property line without special permission from the city's Board of Appeals. He appeared before the appeals board Wednesday and was told that today did not take action until the Plan Commission had made a recommendation on whether the building should be constructed.

Morgan told Koesterer that the city council would consider his petition tonight without a recommendation because of a lack of yes votes.

Morgan also noted that under a new city policy, if the City Council votes against the rezoning tonight, the property can not be rezoned for one full year.

"the cleanest yards in town," Argelan said.

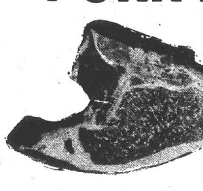

Zanger reports the feeling of the times seemed to be, "We're all in the same boat" and "Get together today—give help tomorrow."

Zanger is enthused about senior citizens attending classes on the SUIC. "These are people going to school for no other reason than to learn," he said. "It's not going to get them a degree or a job. They enjoy sharing ideas."

"This is the most exciting educational situation I've ever been in. They are turned on by learning," he said.

The humanities class is part of a 20-week series being held on the SUIC campus during the fall and winter quarters for senior citizens.

Thanksgiving is almost here. We have taken quite a few orders for FRESH DRESSED TURKEYS. Remember, FRIDAY is the last day to order a fresh turkey. Last week we heard an interesting comment from a customer. As she was leaving the store with one of our bagboys carrying out her groceries she smiled and said, "This is the best part about shopping at Schermers." At first we didn't think too much of it but later on we realized that most people in this area shop in Supermarkets that only offer this service upon request." Evidently this customer had that in mind. We have new ones in the store who are pleasantly surprised.

Miss Cynthia Akers and Michael Wielgus are wed

St. Joseph Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding on Oct. 11 of Miss Cynthia Akers, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Green, 2200 Monroe Ave., and Michael Wielgus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wielgus, 2200 Grand Ave.

Bouquets of fall colored mums, pom poms, autumn leaves and cat tails decorated the sanctuary for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Henry Mack.

Proceeding the arrival of the bride party, Mrs. Clea Judi played "Theme from Love Story" and "We've Only Just Begun."

For her wedding, the former Miss Akers selected a long sate pea gown accented with re-embroidered lace at the high neckline and on the cuffs of the bishop sleeves.

Matching lace bordered the detachable train. She wore an Alencon lace camelot headpiece to hold in place her elbow length veil, edged with beaded lace, and she carried a cascade of white miniature carnations and Taisman roses.

Matron of honor Mrs. Frank Stevens and the bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Green, a sister of the bride, and Miss Donna Kromar, the groom's cousin, wore identical gowns of orange chiffon over tulle.

Charity lace accented the Empire bodices and formed the fitted cuffs on the long sheer sleeves.

Each wore a headpiece of lily of the valley to secure an orange veil and carried a colonial bouquet of fall flowers, daisy pom poms and autumn leaves.

The flower girl, Theresa Stevens, was dressed in a long ivory colored frock trimmed in orange ribbon on the bodice. She held a basket of rose petals.

Frankie Stevens served as the ringbearer.

Attending the groom was Robert Stevens as best man, David Senior and Steve Kromar, a cousin, were groomsmen.

Escorting the guests were Ken Marti and Dan Pierce. A reception was held at Holy Trinity Hall after the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was served at Cline's Restaurant.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Green chose a blue knit gown with blue lace trim at the Empire waistline and on the short sleeves.

Mrs. Wielgus, the groom's mother, appeared in a turquoise tulle full length dress fashioned with long sleeves. Both wore carnation corsages in shades to match their attire.

A graduate of Granite City High School, the bride is now employed in the dietary department at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The groom a graduate of Assumption High School, works at the Nestle Co. plant.

They are now residing in Granite City.

Cloverview plans yule party

Mrs. John Lentz was hostess to the Cloverview Garden Club last week at Tempel's Restaurant for a monthly meeting.

Mrs. William Bradley, president, presided at the session and reported on the recent District V president's council meeting and luncheon in Lebanon. She was the recipient of a red ribbon for her entry in the category "Simplicity" in the artistic division.

The president also announced plans have been finalized for a District Flower Show in May to be held at St. Clair Square Mall in Fairview Heights, with Mrs. Norman Richter of Lebanon as general chairman.

Mrs. Fred Orr read the club collect.

The club will meet with the Garden Study Club for their annual Christmas party at Tempel's Restaurant on Dec. 11 at noon. There will be an exchange of gifts.

It was voted to present to one of the local schools a set of books titled "People and Their Environment, Teachers Curriculum Guide to Conservation Education," and to send the annual contribution to the Lincoln Memorial Garden, Springfield.

A letter of appreciation was read from the state chairman, Mrs. Stephen Shea, Belleville, for the club's donation to the Blue Star Memorial Marker fund. These markers, honoring the war dead, appear on highways throughout the state and are sponsored by garden clubs.

The flower arrangement placed at the Colonial Haven Nursing Home for the month of November was made by Mrs. Kenneth Brokaw and Mrs. Joseph Ochoa. It was an artistic design made of all dried materials in autumn colors.

Mrs. Brokaw also gave the program for the afternoon.

It was a reading on "Ornamental Vegetables" and to further emphasize to what use vegetables can be put, she displayed an arrangement in a basket made of various sizes and species of gourds grown in her own garden. Green foliage complemented the arrangement.

President Bradley also stated she attended a meeting in the home of Mrs. Charles Keil, Gardenaires club, regarding the "Nature Trail" in which all garden clubs of Granite City, scouts and other civic organizations are participating to help beautify the area. The project is promoted by Madison County and meetings will be held each month.

Also attending were guests Mrs. Dean Lee and Mrs. William Miller, and members Mesdames Charles Gandorla, John Jenkins, George Knapp, Robert McCauley, B. C. O'Neill.

Decorations roundtable topic

Christmas decorations, holiday games and crafts for gifts highlighted the meeting last week of the Cub Scout Roundtable at Coolidge Junior High School.

In keeping with the theme of "An Old Fashioned Christmas," each one present was instructed on hanging a homemade ornament on the Christmas tree as they were introduced by Mrs. Nadene Taylor, roundtable commissioner.

An audience participation skit entitled "Santa's Annual Visit" was read by Ron Luebben, vice-chairman for Cub relations, with Mrs. Pat Foote, of the scout's reserve leading the actions. Holiday songs were under the leadership of Mrs. Vee Throne, also of the scout's reserve.

Mrs. Pat Shable was in charge of games of the yuletide season.

Mrs. Throne and Mrs. Darlene Smith discussed Christmas crafts on candle holders, tree ornaments, door decorations and special gifts for parents.

District Executive Mark Yehling announced Mrs. Throne had received the district award of Merit at a dinner meeting and that Ron Luebben was elected vice-chairman for Cub relations, a new office for the Uniwah District.

Other awards presented by Yehling were certificates to Mrs. Shable and Mrs. Gloria Grizzard of Pack 22 for their aid in the "school night for scouting"; Rose Lawrence of Pack 21, who accepted a boy power goal certificate for the unit; Gloria Heintz, who received an award for Pack 13.

Yehling also reported that free bowling games are being given by the Tri Mor Bowl for Nov. 23, 24 and 30 and Dec. 1. Anyone wishing more information should contact the council service center.

"Sir the Pot" project will be held on Nov. 23 at St. Elizabeth School, for the purpose of recruiting new boys to scouting. Each interested boy is to bring a vegetable with him to put in the "new pot."

Charles Buford, Webelo leader for Pack 141, explained the requirements for the artist activity badge, and Larry Lipe, art instructor at North High School, spoke on different art projects that boys can work on, including mobiles, chimes and clay figures.

Theme for the meeting on Dec. 10 will be Space Adventures for Cub Scouts and crafts for the Webelos.

Rich is chairman for Swim-Y-Thon

Fred Cunningham, president of the YMCA, has announced the appointment of the chairman and committee to conduct the third annual Swim-Y-Thon. Tom Rich has been named chairman and committee members are Tom Werner, Nan Henderson, George Moran Sr., Paul Christiansen, Norman Rensing, Tony Mangiaracino and Jay Wyatt. The committee members are swimming enthusiasts who usually swim two or three times per week.

The Swim-Y-Thon will be held Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29 and 30, in the YMCA pool.

The Swim-Y-Thon is an event in which anyone who wants to swim may complete as many laps as he can in 15 minutes to help raise money for designated projects. Each swimmer obtains as many sponsors as he wishes who pledge to pay a specified amount per lap.

Sponsors are then contacted after the event to redeem their pledge based on the number of laps completed. Last year more than $2,000 was raised by 46 swimmers.

Rich reported, "We hope to have 50 or more swimmers this year. Swimmers of any age are welcome to participate. Some of the senior citizens who swim at the "Y" are signing up. Members of the "Y" swim team also will participate as are all of the Swim-Y-Thon committee members.

He said, "It is an event that is fun, good exercise, and serves very worthwhile causes."

"For more information or to sign up as a swimmer or sponsor, those interested may contact the 'Y' at 876-7200 or at 2001 Edison Avenue," Rich concluded.

PROVIDING ENERGY IS OUR BUSINESS. USING ENERGY WISELY IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

How to put idle electric capacity to work on a big job

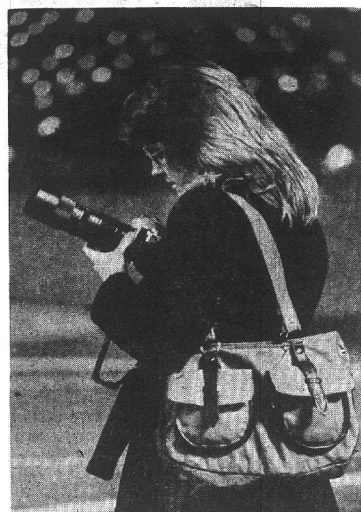

Nite Lite service keeps an eye on your property from dusk to dawn. It helps conserve property from theft and vandalism and spares your family and friends from after-dark accidents. Important job. ☐ And outdoor Nite Lite service uses electricity that would otherwise be idle. ☐ Idle energy? In this day and age? It's a fact. Illinois Power's electric generating capacity has to be built to handle the periods of peak demands on our system, which occur on the hottest summer days. During nighttime "off-peak" periods we have idle electric capacity. ☐ Nite Lite service, using "off-peak" electricity, is a wise use of energy in every way. It protects you and your property. And it helps increase the efficiency of the power plants that serve you. ☐ For details about Nite Lite service for your home, farm or business, ask at our office.

Nurse care standards studied at conference

Registered nurses from throughout Southern Illinois held an all-day meeting Thursday at Belleville to learn new ways to implement where they work the nursing profession's own standards for quality nursing care.

The Clinical Conference of the Illinois Nurses' Association, held once every two years, attracted 200. It was the final of four such regional conferences around the state. Jane Bruker, Edwardsville, president of INA's District 10, presided. Speakers included Dr. Myrtle K. Aydelotte, director of nursing at University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, and Joyce Taylor, clinical specialist in neurological nursing at the University of Chicago Hospitals and Clinics.

The 9,000-member INA promotes programs of continuing education and lobbies in Springfield regarding laws affecting nurses, education and health care generally.

The clinical conference was intended to help nurses implement standards of practice of the American Nurses' Association in hospitals, clinics, schools and offices. Quality-assurance methods, nursing audits, peer review and the role of professional standards review organizations, were discussed.

Bright steel outlook—global demand, wiser U.S. policy

Guest comment by Paul B. Akin, Laclede Steel Company president, outlining problems encountered by steelmakers during the past 15 years and also some of the more positive developments in recent months:

The domestic steel industry in the 1960s was strong and profitable. It ranked in the top half of the 41 major industries in return-on-equity. By the end of the Fifties, steel's debt-equity ratio was conservative—just under 20 per cent.

During the 1960s, several changes severely damaged our industry. One administration after another embraced the philosophy that steel price increases caused inflation—and they used various methods to block steel price increases.

Steel earnings and the market value of steel stocks fell steadily. Unfortunately, during this period the steelmaking process that had been predominate for decades became obsolete. Thus, in spite of dismal earnings, tremendous sums had to be spent to replace open hearth furnaces with either basic oxygen furnaces or electric arc furnaces.

In 1960, approximately 90 per cent of the raw steel produced in the United States was made in open hearth furnaces. By 1972, the open hearth process produced only 26 per cent of this nation's steel.

From 1960 through 1972, the domestic steel industry spent over $20 billion on capital improvements, for modernization and for pollution-abatement equipment, and the industry's debt-equity ratio doubled.

Many of steel's earnings problems were caused by government policy. I am not referring here to President Kennedy's emotional outburst and rollback of steel prices in 1962, or to President Johnson's meddling in steel's labor contract negotiations, and later removal of the investment tax credit in 1966 when steel refused to roll back a minimal pass-through type of price increase. I am, however, referring to the government's refusal to give the industry any protection from steel imports.

It was this lack of governmental action that did the greatest harm during the Sixties. Japan and the separate European countries each decided after World War II that they must have a strong steel industry if they were to succeed as industrial nations. Hence, each of these nations gave many financial incentives to stimulate the growth of their own steel industries, and grow they did.

As their steel-consuming industries did not develop as fast, Japan and Europe soon had large tonnages available for export. Steel is a labor-intensive product, and their labor costs were far below ours.

Our steel prices, therefore, were the highest in the world market, so naturally they sold their excess steel here. Steel consumers in this country loved it, and the politicians thought it was great. There was simply no way our industry could compete with the low labor rates and government subsidies of foreign steel.

In this 15-year period, the United States stopped serving 20 per cent of its market. The foreign steel consumers were growing, however. In 1970, they came of age and we experienced our first international steel shortage. It was short-lived, and few recognized it for what it was.

In late 1972 another international steel shortage started. During the superboom of 1973, steel became very hard to get, and the problem is moderating only slightly now.

The "cheap" foreign steel of the 1960s is now $100 to $200 per ton more expensive than domestic steel. This has been the second international steel shortage; it has not been short-lived, and everyone who uses steel recognizes it for what it is.

The needs of the foreign steel consumers are catching up to their own steel mills' capacity. Those mills have accordingly dropped many of their American customers in order to serve their own countries' expanding requirements.

Foreign steel suppliers cut off steel consumers in the U.S. mercifully in both 1973 and 1974. For many firms, foreign steel was their only source, and they had no "position" with a domestic producer. Few will forget that lesson.

Steel consumers will "buy American" first for some time. Foreign steel will not again be a serious or continuing problem in the next eight to ten years.

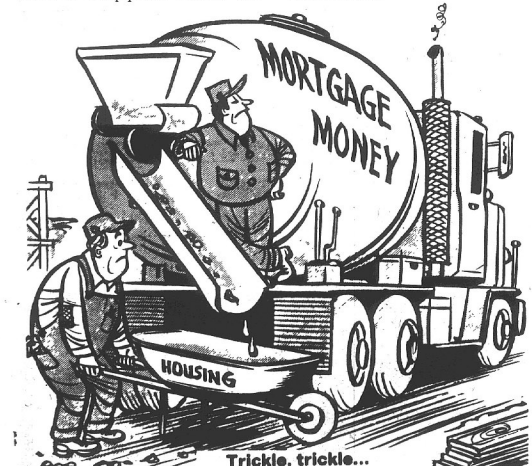

Findings soon on best way to solve GC sewer failure

Because of the severity of the underground sanitary sewer system failure, Granite City municipal officials are right in taking a full look at the subject rather than leaping to premature conclusions about which remedial course to follow.

The issue is urgent, of course, since the system is not functioning as intended and there are major disruptions of service in the areas of some of the pipeline breaks. The rising water table has aggravated the situation, studies have determined.

When reasonable solutions begin to take solid form this winter, the findings will need to be shared fully with citizens. Substantial costs will be involved, but perhaps a package can be put together that will be both effective and acceptable to the tax-paying public.

Much food is going to world's hungry people

To the Editor:
One fact that seems to have been overlooked by many nations which took part in the World Food Conference in Rome is the vast amount of food aid that has been contributed to starving people around the world by the United States.

Perhaps even more important in view of the current crisis is the fact that our nation is proposing to spend more than one billion dollars for food aid this year.

At the food conference in Rome, Italy, a push was made to get commitments for increased food aid to starving people on an emergency basis.

It wasn't part of the game plan of the conference to begin with, but the dire need of a number of countries—where hunger and starvation has become a way of life or death—catapulted this need into the foreground of the multi-national meeting.

A plea for emergency food relief for starvation-plagued Bangladesh was made by Saur Marel of Egypt, secretary general of the conference.

It could be expected, the United States is being looked to to give much of the emergency relief. Not only is the U.S. looked upon as a rich country, but its agriculture is recognized around the world for its bountiful production of food.

What is not generally recognized, or at least talked about in Rome, is the fact that America's food aid to other countries is not at ground zero. The current level of U.S. food aid to all foreign countries under Public Law 480 is about three million tons of food and feed grains.

The speculation at Rome is that Uncle Sam could increase that amount by an additional 1 to 1½ million tons.

Aside from the emergency aspects of the discussions on food aid at Rome, the generally accepted figure now seems to be 10 million tons of food aid annually. That is to say that developing countries will need that amount to subsist.

But how much each of the donor countries is to contribute and what arrangements is to be made to get that aid where it is needed has yet to be made clear.

While there were countries in Rome who used the conference as a political forum to do some name calling—referring to the United States with such terms as "plunderers"—it was interesting to note that many of the same countries were also contacting the U.S. officials to ask for large amounts of food aid.

Condemning 'business' is harmful to everyone

By ARCH BOOTH
President, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The newsletter reads: "There's hefty opposition in Congress to anything helpful to business without helping plain people."

It's a reputable newsletter and I have no doubt the report is correct. But it started me wondering, as such reports usually do.

How do we fall into this trap of assuming that whatever helps business hurts "plain people," and vice versa? It's almost as though we were talking about two entirely separate worlds, rather than one and the same economy, which prospers or falls as a unit.

What, after all, is "business"? It's the store you own, or the company that pays your salary, or the stocks and bonds that feed your pension fund and your insurance policies, or the companies and their employees that pay the taxes that pay your salary.

The health of "business" affects everything. Even the great "non-profit" philanthropic foundations are in trouble today because their investments are losing value as the stock market sag.

That, in turn, hurts the charities and cultural institutions they once supported. Many of the big privately endowed universities are caught in the same pinch.

When business is off, people worry. When the stock market falls, people worry.

When workers are laid off, people worry. If you would think, then, that steps to reverse these worrisome declines would be welcome. On the contrary!

Just let some businessman or politician hint that something should be done to aid business, and he immediately becomes the target of every demagogue in the land.

Remember when a president of General Motors said — a business is not a charity, it's something else. "What's good for General Motors is good for the U.S.?" What he meant, of course, was that the American business in general is good for the economy, and everyone benefits from a healthy economy.

But the possibilities of taking that remark out of context were too tempting to ignore. So, instead of interpreting the statement correctly, some major news media cooperated with the demagogues to make a laughingstock of the unfortunate man.

Dictators often find it useful to conjure up the "enemy" to distract the attention of their people from the effects of their own misgovernment.

In our society, the fear of "big business" is being used in much the same way by politicians who favor more state control over the economy; that is, less economic freedom for the individual.

"Big business" is a straw man. Business is probably our weakest social institution, in terms of its ability to influence the political process.

Fearing its "power" is like fearing the power of a bulldog is that which helps the application of that power is sharply restricted to the design functions of a healthy economy.

In the case of business, that function is providing goods and services to the consumer.

If you properly know what things are really going, don't be distracted by the current profits of Exxon — or any other transitory claim to isolated bit of data. Instead,

Industry's use of lake being cared beneficial

Presentation by Harlie M. Love, manager of environmental technology, Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, at a public hearing in Edwardsville on a permit proposal related to Horseshoe Lake.

Granite City Steel is what the industry classes as an integrated steel producer. That means essentially that the plant is one of only 30 or so in the United States performing all steps — start to finish — in the basic steelmaking process.

Steelmaking is a large operation requiring huge equipment and involving thousands of people—in the case of Granite City Steel, about 5,200 employees.

Raw materials for steelmaking must be brought together, often from hundreds of miles away. We utilize equipment that can pick up a loaded railroad car and shake it empty in a matter of a few minutes.

We consume over 200 railroad carsloads of raw materials daily. These raw materials are prepared for reduction in blast furnaces to produce pig iron for the steelmaking furnaces.

The two blast furnaces are over 17 stories high; and the molten iron from these furnaces is converted into steel. This steel is then rolled into flat-rolled products.

In our steelmaking activities we utilize approximately 68.5 million gallons of water daily, enough for a city of 400,000 people.

We utilize this water for many purposes: to cool furnaces to generate steam, to operate pollution control equipment, to generate steam, to generate steam, to generate steam.

Our water use requirements of about 12 million gallons for each net ton of steel produced represents one of the most frugal in the industry, which is an average of about 20,000 gal. N.T.

That water is withdrawn from the Mississippi River and returned to the Mississippi River through an old channel now called Horseshoe Lake and returned to the Mississippi River through an old channel now called Horseshoe Lake.

Sanitary District—sometimes called Cahokia Canal, which cut off Cahokia Creek, the natural flow-way to the Mississippi River.

In relatively recent geologic time, the Mississippi River main stream rapidly changed frequently, leaving partly-drained lowlands or backwater swamps and former channels such as crescent-shaped Horseshoe Lake.

Of the thousands of such abandoned channels along the river, the Mississippi River, Horseshoe Lake is unique for it is joined to the existing main channel of the river via Cahokia Canal.

Horseshoe Lake is thus both physically and technically a part of the Mississippi River, just as a hand or a finger is a part of the body.

Horseshoe Lake is located in what is known as the American Bottoms, approximately four miles east of the Mississippi River between Granite City, Ladoland and Venice, Illinois, and north of East St. Louis and Fairmont City on the south-west.

The American Bottoms in which the lake is located is a broad floodplain between the Mississippi River on the west and the Mississippi River on the east. Meanderings of the Mississippi River channel in ages past have left depressions in the flood plain at former channel locations, thereby forming a series of shallow lakes.

Horseshoe Lake is the largest of these lakes in the American Bottoms, having a normal water surface in excess of 2,000 acres.

When the United States land surveys were made in 1815, the area comprising Horseshoe Lake was marked "lake" but was divided into sections and has since been in possession of various land owners.

In the 1930s, Cahokia Canal was constructed by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District. This waterway was reduced and altered in past years.

Without the Granite City Steel water discharge, the lake would at times revert back to a mosquito- and snake-infested slough of the main river channel. Its water quality would be poorer than it is today.

In 1965 Granite City Steel, with approval from the Illinois Water Board, constructed a secondary biological wastewater treatment facility to treat all the wastewater discharged from its steelmaking processes and auxiliary plant facilities.

Equivalent to secondary treatment, we have been treating our effluent water to a level for almost a decade that others are just now considering.

District to intercept stormwater from the bluffs and lowlands to the east and northeast of Horseshoe Lake and conduct the flow to the North Pumping Station at the Mississippi River in East St. Louis.

The project included a connecting channel from the southern part of the lake to Cahokia Canal and a spillway in the connecting channel to provide a normal lake level of 493.8 mean sea level.

Control gates were provided in the Cahokia Canal downstream from the connecting channel to divert stormwater from the canal into Horseshoe Lake for temporary storage.

Drainage systems directly tributary to Horseshoe Lake include Mitchell Ditch, Long Lake, Dobey Slough, Elm Slough and Nankook Ditch. The communities of Mitchell, Pontoon Beach, Maryland Place and a substantial portion of Granite City are located in this area and the effluent from Pontoon Beach sewage treatment lagoon ultimately reaches Horseshoe Lake.

The drainage system contributing stormwater to Horseshoe Lake during dry weather, and stormwater by control works includes County Ditch, Cahokia Canal, Judy's Branch, Bunk's Branch, McDonough Lake, School House Branch and Canteen Creek.

The communities of Glen Carbon, Maryville, Collinsville and Cuyville are located in the drainage area, and effluent from municipal sewage treatment plants in Glen Carbon, Maryville and Collinsville ultimately reaches Horseshoe Lake during periods of high water.

The total source of water for Horseshoe Lake is stormwater runoff from its tributaries. The above-mentioned sources, and the discharge from the Granite City Steel stabilization basins.

A few savings in the bluffs may feed Cahokia Canal, which bypasses the lake except during periods of high water in the spring.

The lake averages about four feet deep throughout most of its area, but has a very soft, silty bottom of considerable thickness.

The East Side Levee and Sanitary District operates the system as a flood control project rather than a system for impounding water for power.

A report prepared by the Corps of Engineers, St. Louis District, published in 1964, contains recommendations involving Horseshoe Lake and its drainage area, and the means of retaining storm flow temporarily.

Prior to 1965 when Granite City Steel constructed its wastewater treatment facility, Horseshoe Lake existed as mosquito- and snake-infested swamp and mud flats. In fact, this area has been dry in past years prior to 1965.

A geological accident, its most useful purpose was then as a Corps of Engineers flood water retention basin.

During the spring when river levels reached flood stage, the lake drained back into the old lake bed from Cahokia Canal and blended with surface water from the main river and east Granite City area.

These waters were held in the lake bed by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District and released to the river once the threat of floods was past.

During the hot summer months of July and August, water levels in the lake would drop, exposing expansive areas of lake bottom to the drying sun, killing most of the fish population.

Water levels in the lake fluctuated drastically and abruptly with the season. Horseshoe Lake, with a mean depth of four feet, has never been a habitat for trout or other sensitive game fish, nor a source of drinking water.

The lake has no natural source of water to sustain it except for its tributary waters. This water quality has been reduced and altered in past years.

Without the Granite City Steel water discharge, the lake would at times revert back to a mosquito- and snake-infested slough of the main river channel. Its water quality would be poorer than it is today.

In 1965 Granite City Steel, with approval from the Illinois Water Board, constructed a secondary biological wastewater treatment facility to treat all the wastewater discharged from its steelmaking processes and auxiliary plant facilities.

Equivalent to secondary treatment, we have been treating our effluent water to a level for almost a decade that others are just now considering.

Treated effluent from the Granite City Steel facility has helped Horseshoe Lake sustain a constant water level since 1965 that supports an assorted fish population and other wildlife, including hundreds of migratory waterfowl that winter on the lake.

Fish kills prevalent in the past have not been experienced. Indeed, the area has been provided with a pleasant body of water with many uses.

The heart of our treatment system is a two-cell, wastewater stabilization basin covering 350 acres of area. This basin has a total capacity of 1,975 acre-feet of water.

It required the construction of approximately four miles of levees. These levees were constructed from 16,139 cubic yards of open hearth slag sealed with a blanket of 119,000 cubic yards of earth embankment.

The principles involved in a biological wastewater treatment system are unique as employed by Granite City Steel. All wastewater streams for an integrated steel mill are combined into one final effluent system and one outfall.

Natural water purification processes are involved in the removal of contaminants from the waste stream. Algae present in the basin generate oxygen, which in turn is utilized by bacteria for the decomposition of organic matter. The same natural processes exist in nature.

Soluble materials are decomposed by bacteria or become precipitated by gravity. The action of soluble materials is decomposed by bacteria or become precipitated by gravity. The action of soluble materials is decomposed by bacteria or become precipitated by gravity.

As the bacteria decompose the organic matter, a demand is exerted upon the dissolved oxygen in the basin. This demand is counter-balanced by the algae as they utilize carbon dioxide and ammonia along with energy from the sunlight and liberate oxygen by photosynthesis.

Since 1965, the state has been providing monthly with reports depicting the water quality of our outfall.

Today that reporting has been provided by the efforts of Granite City Steel's Environmental Quality Control Department, which oversees major environmental research, monitoring and compliance expenditures, and conducts continuing day-to-day environmental quality management and maintenance programs to evaluate the effectiveness of existing control systems.

The department has a staff of chemists and professional engineers and contains one of the bi-state area's most complete environmental laboratories.

In considering the Granite City Steel water treatment facility, it is extremely important to remember and clearly understand that water used by Granite City Steel isn't necessarily lost, or consumed, or recycled numerous times, and treated—much cleaner and better-quality water than before—and then returned to the stream from which it came via Horseshoe Lake, an old slough of the main river channel.

For example, a net amount of more than 27,500 pounds of suspended solids are removed daily from the Mississippi River by our wastewater treatment facilities.

This means that Granite City Steel water treatment removes an equivalent of all of the solids the company operations may contribute, plus removing solids from the intake water.

Effluent data verifies that other water quality parameters are also improved significantly. However, we are aware that the intake water may change quality in a sudden and unexpected manner wholly beyond the control of Granite City Steel.

Intake waters fluctuate both abruptly and appreciably in the quantity of contaminants present; therefore, effluent standards are set to maintain Granite City Steel outfall should reflect net numbers.

Credit should be given for background concentrations of contaminants present in river water caused essentially by upstream sources, pursuant to Rule 401 (b) of the Illinois Effluent Standards and proposed rulemaking by the administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency.

With the sincere effort to cooperate in an effort to sustain the environment and the water quality of Horseshoe Lake.

Some schools in state teaching metric system

By MARY LOU MANNING
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

On a visit this fall to a school in Quincy, an official from the state education office looked in on a third grade class. The children were busy smiling—and measuring those smiles in millimeters.

The conversion to the metric system is inevitable, according to the experts.
The drug industry has been using it for years. And many other industries, including General Motors, have adopted the metric system.

In fact, the U. S. is the only major industrial country—and nearly the only country, period—still adhering to inches, pounds and miles.

Some schools within Illinois aren't waiting for the Congressional mandate to begin their conversion from the customary measurement system to the metric system. To assist them in beginning their programs, the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction has conducted several workshops on the subject.

"Last fall, we began informational workshops, generally for superintendents of county educational services regions," explained Dean Nichols, mathematics specialist for OSPI's instructional services section.

"Since then, we've had many requests for workshops with concrete experience and information," he continued.

Nichols said most teachers, faced with the idea of teaching the metric system, react in one of two ways: They feel there is "no problem" or they are "scared to death" of it.

"However, after a short time, most of their fears are eluded," he said.

A frequent suggestion in teaching the system is not to memorize the figures but rather to use practical application.

The math specialist suggests integrating the system into many fields of study, such as science, industrial arts, home economics, math and social studies courses.

"For example, it can be used in social studies classes where the use of maps entails measurements," he said. "Or in home economics, where pattern pieces and canned goods are already labeled with metric measurements."

The idea of a "metric America" is not a new one. Almost 200 years ago, Thomas Jefferson asked for uniformity in weights and measures, and in 1821 John Quincy Adams advocated adoption of the metric system.

It was authorized again in 1886 by Congress, and adopted by the U. S. War Department for medical work in 1884 and by the U. S. Health Department in 1902.

By 1900, a total of 35 nations had officially accepted the metric system. A bill to change it failed in Congress in 1926.

Congress authorized a study of the system in 1958, and three years later the commission recommended that the U. S. change to permanent use of metrics through a coordinated national program.

To date, Congress has not put its official stamp on a bill to authorize the change. When it passes, a 10-year implementation program will follow.

Senate confirms Whitley

Among the first order of business by the Illinois Senate when it reconvened this month was to confirm officially the gubernatorial appointment of Alfred C. Whitley, 33, a union official, to the post of commissioner of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC). Whitley, who is secretary-treasurer of the Janitors' Union Local No. 1, Chicago, Service Employees International Union (SEIU), AFL-CIO, will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of James Kemp who resigned from the FEPC several months ago after being appointed to the Regional Transportation Authority Board.

Commissioner Whitley, as his predecessor Kemp, has been active in organized labor for a number of years. He began his career as a building custodian and engineer in 1946, and in 1957 was appointed organizer of the Janitors' Union Local No. 1. He was elected recording secretary in 1961 and appointed business agent in 1964 until his election in 1967 to the position he holds today.

The new commissioner is active with Local No. 1 as chairman of the Civil Rights Committee, and he serves as a trustee for the Health and Pension Funds in addition to serving as director of the Advance Training School.

His civic activities include membership on the executive board of the Chicago Branch NAACP, and he is a past treasurer of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, Chicago Branch.

The Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission was established in 1961 to enforce the FEPC Act which prohibits by law employment discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex, national origin and ancestry. The commission orders are enforceable by law.

New railroad wheel plant

Armsted Industries announced in Chicago Friday that its Chicago-based Griffin Wheel Division plans to build a new railroad wheel plant in Keokuk, Iowa. The project is subject to final approval by the company's board of directors.

Griffin Smith, Armsted president, said the plant will be a multi-million-dollar investment. It will cover 200,000 square feet on a 119-acre site, and will have a capacity of 1,000 steel freight car wheels a day.

When construction is completed in 1977, about 200 people will be employed. The plant will be Griffin's fifth wheel-producing facility in the U. S.

"The decision to build this new plant was made because of steadily growing demand for railroad wheels," Smith said. He noted that "the trend toward larger-capacity freight cars and greater miles traveled per day is causing wheels to wear more quickly which, in turn, increases the number needed for repair and replacement purposes."

He added, "The high level of orders for new freight cars also is increasing the demand for wheels."

Armsted's American Steel Foundries division also is expanding its Granite City plant to produce more castings for rail freight car truck units.

C. P. Voll, president of Griffin Wheel, said Keokuk, in southeastern Iowa on the Mississippi River, was chosen as the plant's site because of its central U. S. location, availability of skilled employees, adequate energy supplies and excellent railroad transportation. He said the new facility will meet federal standards for clean air and water as well as health and safety.

Employment guide issued

A guide for Illinois employers, the 1974 "EEO Compliance Checklist," has been published by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

The publication contains the latest federal and state guidelines, regulations and laws dealing with equal employment opportunity and fair employment practices. A prescribed affirmative action plan is outlined.

Copies are available at $1.50 each, plus five per cent tax, from the human resources department, Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago 60606.

In Memoriam 33
In loving memory of JOSEPH JACKIMCZUK, November 21, 1973.
I have lost my life's companion. A life linked with my own. And every day I miss him more. As I walk through life alone. No one knows the silent heart-aches. Only those who have lost can tell. Oh the grief I bear in silence. For the one I loved so well. I never knew that hearts could ache. With such a bitter pain. Longing for a vanishing face. To hear his voice again. I never knew that nights could be so lonely cold and dim. But I have learned so many things. Because of losing him. If all the world were mine to give. I would give it all and more. To see his face I loved so dear. Come smiling through my door. Sadly missed by—

2 robbed in Venice
Two young women were robbed of their purses by an armed man while they were entering their parked car in the 1400 block of Fourth Street in Madison at 11:35 p.m. Friday. Loreta Pace, 19, of 1225 Klein St., Venice, and Mary Lee Davinoy, 16, of 1229 Klein St., Venice, said they were approaching their parked car when a man began following them. As they reached the car, he put a small weapon against the Pace woman's head and said, "Hold it."
He pushed one woman into the car and told the other to get in. He put his hand over the Pace woman's mouth when she started to scream.
The robber then took both women's purses, one empty of money and the other containing about $10, and the Pace woman pushed him away and fled with the car keys. She ran to a nearby restaurant and called police.
Luggage, containing clothing and shoes worth $584, was stolen from the car of Charles Stief, 714 Twenty-sixth Place, it was reported at 1:45 a.m. Sunday. The car's left vent window was broken and the three pieces of luggage were removed.

Roy Drischel dies at 70

Antitrust suit is filed

Antitrust violations by Granite City Steel and two other firms are charged in a $1.35 million suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court in St. Louis by a St. Louis steel producer.

The complaint was filed by Manufacturers Steel Supply Co., Inc., which alleges that the National Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., conspired with Granite City Steel and the National Steel Service Center, Inc. of Evanston, Ill. to force Manufacturers out of business. Both Granite City Steel and the Evanston firm are owned by National Steel.

Officials of the steel company deny the allegations. The suit alleged that National Steel acquired Granite City Steel in 1971, then ordered cutbacks which eventually cut off sales to Manufacturers in 1973. The complaint charges a conspiracy to stop Manufacturers from competing with the Evanston firm.

The suit asks that National Steel be ordered to divest itself of Granite City Steel, and requests damages of $1.2 million. It also seeks $150,000 in attorney fees.

A spokesman at Granite City Steel said officials have not yet seen the law suit, but in response to the litigation have issued the following statement:

"1. National Steel Service Center, Inc., a division of National Steel Corp., is in the same business as Manufacturers Steel Supply but is in no way an important factor in the St. Louis market supplied by Manufacturers Steel. National Steel Service Center, Inc. maintains a single salesman in the St. Louis area and does not have a sales office here. Granite City Steel, also a division of National Steel Corp., since the merger of 1971, supplies steel products to a variety of steel consumers including independent service centers like Manufacturers.

"2. Further, our sales records show that we have maintained shipments of steel on a regular basis since the merger to these St. Louis steel service centers.

"3. We supplied Manufacturers Steel Supply, as we did the other service centers, for approximately 18 months after the merger although they repeatedly expressed dissatisfaction with the quality of our products. By 1972, in fact, their claims costs had quadrupled as compared to 1969. We attempted to meet their requirements with steel from another National Steel Division but they continued to express dissatisfaction and began to purchase most of their steel from another company. Manufacturers Steel Supply did subsequently ask us for additional steel. However, by then the market had become very tight and we had assumed other obligations to St. Louis area customers for the steel we were producing.

"4. In earlier statements to the press, an official of Manufacturers Steel Supply is quoted as saying that the 1971 merger of Granite City Steel and National Steel had reduced the amount of steel available for fabricators in this area. That opposite is true. Our records show that shipments to the St. Louis market this year are up 15 per cent for the first nine months over the same period of 1971.

"5. The fact is that the 1971 merger has provided Granite City Steel with access to raw materials and to financial resources for improving its plant that it would not otherwise have had. Granite City Steel is able to produce significantly more steel today than in 1971 before the merger and this has certainly strengthened the metalworking industries which are such an important part of the St. Louis area economy.

Barney Barrow succumbs

Barney Barrow, 69, of 2528 Center St., died at 4:30 a.m. Saturday at Memorial Hospital, Belleville, where he had been a patient three weeks. He had been ill two and one-half years.

Mr. Barrow was born in Stewart County, Tenn., and moved in the St. Louis area 47 years. He retired from the Castings Division of General Steel Industries after 40 years of service as a crane operator. He was a member of Bethesda Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eva Barrow; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas (Ethel) Miller of Belleville; a son, Gordon Barrow of East St. Louis; two brothers, Oscar Barrow of Winchester, Ky., and Russell Barrow of Warren, Mich.; a sister, Mrs. Anna Parker of Murray, Ky.; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Pay hikes in county budget

By HARRY BARNES

Press-Record Staff Writer

A 1974-75 Madison County budget of $12,662,732 which projects salary increases in virtually all county departments and includes expenditure of $1,347,960 in federal revenue sharing funds will be presented to the county board for final reading Wednesday.

The board also is expected to pass the annual tax levy to finance part of the budget expenditures during its regular meeting. The budget will be given final approval in the board's December session.

The new budget, an increase of $777,486 over the 1973-74 appropriation, sets expenditures of $6,378,323 out of the general fund, $1,347,960 in federal revenue sharing funds and $4,956,449 in the county's 15 separate tax levy accounts.

Expenditures out of the county general fund are $499,581 less than the general fund appropriation a year ago, but the total of revenue sharing and separate tax account expenditures is $1,277,067 more than the $5,027,342 appropriated in the separate tax accounts for the 1973-74 year. There was no separate budget of revenue sharing funds last year.

Of the total of $1,347,960 budgeted out of the federal revenue sharing account, $1,144,792 is projected for expenditures in the Sheriff's Department, with the remaining $203,168 budgeted as the final payment on the county's debt processing equipment.

In addition to the $1,144,792 budgeted in revenue sharing funds, the Sheriff's Department also has an appropriation of $185,150 as part of the general fund, making a total sheriff's appropriation of $1,329,942. This is a reduction of $86,522 below the sheriff's budget of $1,416,792 last year.

The new budget also projects expenditures of $253,300 for County Board operations, including $100,000 for payment of per diem fees to board members. The appropriation also includes $15,000 for the salary of the County Board chairman and and electric power.

The budget for the County Highway Department is $1,010,224, up from $880,000 last year, and the appropriation in the county bridge tax levy account is $716,000 up from $643,000.

The appropriation for the municipal retirement fund totals $900,000, down $50,000 from last year.

Other appropriations in the special tax accounts include: Maps and plats, $84,951; Veterans assistance commission, $169,838; Civilian defense, $58,311; County museum, $23,262; Detention home, $253,757; Detention home bonds, $23,533; Community mental health, $627,218; Federal aid matching funds (highway) $289,000; Outside
